In this talk we’re going to explore the Erdős–Rényi random graph model and its peculiar properties. Among them are phase transition between being connected and disconnected, the birth of a giant component, and emergence of THE random graph. We’ll prove some of these properties and give its interpretation in terms of social networks and the Internet.