Approximations of the ratio of a circle’s circumference to its diameter have fascinated mathematicians since ancient times. I will discuss some of the history from polygon approximations of a circle to the fastest modern algorithms. There will be a heavy emphasis on the role of calculus in creating faster ways to compute $\pi$. A simple algorithm for computing $\pi$ will be derived using Gauss’ continued fraction for hypergeometric functions.