Harlem Academy: Middle School Math Teacher & Math Coach

Harlem Academy is an independent school (grades 1 to 8) that prepares bright, motivated students for success at top secondary schools and lifelong learning. The school offers merit-based admissions, cultivates strong family partnerships, and ensures its economic diversity by meeting all demonstrated need for tuition support. Please visit our website at www.harlemacademy.org for more information.

Harlem Academy’s middle school math teacher must possess outstanding skills for maximizing learning and a resolve to do whatever it takes to help build a school in Harlem that rivals the best private schools in New York City. The middle school math teacher will:

- Teach sixth through eighth grade math using a Singapore Math curriculum (prior experience with teaching Singapore Math is beneficial, but not required).
- Write and execute lesson plans that meet core learning goals with effective use of evaluation and model a passion for mathematical thinking and problem solving.
- Teach a weekly advanced problem-solving course to select groups.
- Coach lower grade math teachers in developing effective lesson plans and assessments that build core skills and instill a love of mathematical thinking.
- Collaborate with colleagues in innovative program development
- Manage school-day routines and environments to ensure safety, academic performance, and holistic growth
- Partner with families in formal and informal written correspondence, meetings, volunteer opportunities, and overall collaboration.
- Advise a group of middle school students and lead art and/or sport electives.
- Demonstrate professional conduct and a thoughtful, team-oriented approach
- Reflect on and improve professional practices with mission-focus, depth, and honesty.

Additional Information:
Applicants should have 3+ years of experience. A relevant Master’s degree is preferred but not required based on demonstrated skills. Harlem Academy offers professional development opportunities, benefits, 10 weeks paid vacation, and a salary of $45,000 to $65,000. Applicants are asked to submit via electronic mail a cover letter and resume to Leah Weintraub, incoming Middle School Director, at LWeintraub@harlemacademy.org (Attn: Middle School Math). The cover letter should be no more than two pages and should describe your capacity for contribution.
